Boot and Shoe Manufactory.

THE subscriber still continues to manufacture BOOTS & SHOES of every description at the old stand on East Water street, opposite Ludington & Co's store. All those wishing boots and shoes made in a most genteel and workman-like manner, equal in quality and durability to any manufactured west of N. York, would do well to give him a call. A good supply of boots and shoes of my own manufacture constantly on hand.

MRS. CAMPBELL.
WOULD respectfully inform the Ladies of Milwaukee and vicinity, that she has received per express from New York, a new and general assortment of MILLINERY GOODS,

Real Neapolitan Hats,
Ricestraws, French Dunstables,
Patent Dunstables, Tuscan, &c.
Hat and Cap Ribbons of all kinds,
Kid Gloves, &c. &c. &c.

Together with the LATEST FASHIONS,
direct from New York, and will be happy to execute all orders in her line of business with promptness and despatch, on the most reasonable terms. In Main street, a few doors north of the Milwaukee House.

N. B.—Just received an invoice of Straw
Goods, which are for sale very low. July 3m
MILWAUKIE VARIETY STORE.

WHIG NOMINATION.

FOR DELEGATE TO CONGRESS

JAMES COLLINS

OF IOWA COUNTY.

"Let merit bear the palm."

It is truly gratifying to observe the rapid strides our good citizens are making daily in the progress and excellence of their manufactures. One at a distance could hardly imagine that in this infant city, springing up as it were amid the wilderness, among other trades and professions, that of Book Binding was beginning to occupy a prominent position; yet nevertheless such is the fact. There are two good Binderies now in the "wide of successful operation" in this city, both of which we are pleased to learn are doing a profitable business. One is owned by Messrs. Hale & Horne, of the Milwaukee Book Store, and the other by Messrs. S. L. Rood & Co., extensive dealers in Stationery, Blank Books, Primary School Books, &c. We saw the other day a large blank book manufactured at this establishment, that not only reflected the highest credit on its makers, but would compare with any got up in New-York, Boston or Philadelphia for elegance and durability. The binding was truly superb, and the ruling executed with a neatness and precision that bore incontestable evidences of a master workman.

Mr. Town, of this establishment, has been long and favorably known to our citizens as a Book Binder; and his close application to business—his experience and excellence as a workman—and his unremitting exertions to give satisfaction, certainly entitle him to the public favor and patronage. Mr. Rood, the senior of the firm, is also a binder by profession, and no second-rate workman at that. This enterprising gentleman, with a high minded public spirit, brought into the city within the past year the largest assortment of Stationery that was ever opened in the Western country. This stock from time to time has been replenished, as the demands of the country have required it, leaving an assortment sufficiently varied to supply the necessary demands of the public.

Merchants in this city and the neighboring villages and country West, can always get their full supply of Blank Work and Stationery, for their trade as well as for their own use, of Messrs. Rood & Co., on equally as advantageous terms, and at as low prices, as they can purchase in the Eastern cities, and the articles are equally as good. They are prepared to execute with promptitude and neatness all orders for Binding, Blank Work or Stationery, whether at home or from abroad, and in a manner which cannot fail to give general satisfaction.

"Let angelus in herba."—Such an exclamation one is often led to make, on learning that a person in whom he had placed the utmost confidence for sincerity and good feeling, had most wantonly betrayed that confidence, and by slander and private abuse sought to inflict upon him irreparable injury. It is aggravating, to hear that a certain individual, for whom you had entertained a kindness of feeling, has vilified and traduced you in your absence, while in your presence he is all fawning and sycophancy. The inherent principle of our nature would generally lead us to retaliate on such, especially as, in some instances, the slanderer maintained a vulnerable character; but we doubt much the magnanimity of such a course. It is contracted, narrow, selfish, and next akin to the spirit of the man who slandered you. As you hope for forgiveness for your manifold transgressions, forgive him, if you cannot forget. Sad experience will teach you to avoid him, as you would the deadly adder—but philanthropy will enter her protest against your heaping upon him recrimination. Leave him to the torments of his own guilty conscience—for guilty it must be. Treat him with that kindness and civility of demeanor that evinces the triumph of a noble, generous mind over the dark and malignant passions of revenge. "La reputation d'un homme est comme un oiseau, qui tantôt se leve, et tantôt se couche; quelquefois elle est plus longue, et quelquefois plus courte que lui."

The steamboat Big Hatchie, engaged in the Missouri River trade, burst one of her boilers on the 23d inst., when about 75 miles up the River and opposite Harmon, making a perfect wreck of the boat as far as the Ladies Cabin, and spreading death and destruction among the crew and passengers. The number killed and wounded has not yet been fully ascertained. Five or six were killed instantly, among whom were the 1st and 3d Engineers of the boat. Four others have since died. Seventeen are badly scalded, two of whom were not expected to recover. The Captain escaped uninjured.

Accidents of this nature have become so frequent that they are set down as common, every day occurrences. Human life is sacrificed by wholesale, through gross negligence, and it is a day's wonder. The busy throng pursue the even tenor of their way, unthinking of the past—apparently heedless of the future. A Captain who employs an incompetent engineer, and thus trifles with the lives and safety of his passengers, is in a degree a murderer; and when life is sacrificed under his management, should be treated as such.

South Carolina, Alabama and Florida papers speak in the most discouraging terms of the prospects of the planters. A long continued drought has destroyed almost everything. Some Virginia papers indulge in equally discouraging language as to the prospects in that State.

Every Day Sunday.—By different nations, every day in the week is set apart for public worship, viz: Sunday by the Christians, Monday by the Greeks, Tuesday by the Persians, Wednesday by the Assyrians, Thursday by the Egyptians, Friday by the Turks, and Saturday by the Jews.

Australia and Van Dieman's Land.—We see from European papers that England is beginning to receive produce from her Australian Colonies. The wheat is represented as very fine, the berries being as large as peas. These colonies have been, since a short time after their first settlement, celebrated for their wool, which is of the finest texture.

Ten companies of the 3d U. S. Infantry, 500 men in all, reached New Orleans on the 10th inst., on their way to Texas.

A Poet's Thoughts.

BY JAMES LOWLAND.

Wherefore should I regard the frown
Of him whose bosom's heart is gold?
Who from his fancied height looks down
Upon me as he would behold
The veriest knave that walks the street,
Or reptile crawling at his feet?

What if capricious fortune chose Him for a favorite of hers.
Should I look up to him with those Who are his trembling worshippers,
But who within their hearts revile
The thing on which they ever smile?

Or, has imperial nature made
Us so diverse in every way?
Formed him of dust of higher grade,
And fashioned me of meaner clay,
That I should bow and cringe before
A being sycophants adore?

In what is he superior, pray?
Is not my heart as good as his?
Is not my intellectual ray
As bright as any countenance's?
Is not my form, though frail and slight,
As his, as noble, fair and bright?

And when shall come the angel death,
As come alike he must to all,
To take away our laboring breath,
And lay us 'neath his sable pall,
Will not my slumber be as sweet
As his within the grave's retreat?

And though a prouder monument
May mark his final place of rest
With drooping willows o'er it bent,
His wealth and standing to attest,
And richly sculptured letters show
No plebeian's ashes sleep below;

Will not the dew and sunlight fall,
As sweetly on my humble tomb,
As on that lordling's narrow hall,
Arrayed in all its pompous gloom?
Will not the stars their watches keep Alike above our dreamless sleep?

Then wherefore should I deem myself
So much below him in the scale
Of being, when the shining pelf
Of his can never countervail
That wealth of heart so oft possessed
By men in meaner garments dressed?

Whence comes this all-subduing power,
This subtle and mysterious force,
That makes the poor man meekly cower,
When in his daily intercourse
With those who deem themselves the great
And frown upon his lowlier state?

Will men pretend that they are free,
And still submit to be controlled,
By what they cannot help but see
Is nothing but ignominious gold,
Which, though retained with nervous clasp,
Eludes its mud adorer's grasp?

What vain delusion this to say,
And think that all alike are blest,
When wealth, with undisturbed sway
Makes freemen bow at his behest,
And own that she is nobler far
Than all the souls bright jewels are?

O, when will man forget the lore
That so degrades and blots his name,
And learn to love his brother more
For virtues he may justly claim,
Than all the tinsel baubles which Engirt and elevate the rich?

The Grave of Harrison.—The editor of the Southern Christian Advocate has given a very pleasant sketch of his journey from Charleston, to attend the late convention at Louisville. Passing over the former part of his journey, we will accompany him on the trip from Cincinnati to Louisville, on the mail route—the only object which attracted the travellers attention being the grave of General Harrison. He says of that sacred spot:

"I was but little inclined to sight seeing on the passage to Louisville. One object I desired to see. It was the residence and grave of Harrison—they are one in interest at least. To accomplish this object with more certainty, I ascended the upper deck at once, and waited with eager interest our approach to the melancholy place in which were buried in an unfortunate hour, the hopes of a great multitude, whose suffrages had raised him to the most exalted station of honor and responsibility known among men. As we neared the place dear to so many hearts, and rendered sacred by so many associations, there was a very striking manifestation of a very common and pervading interest—and the grave—the house—passed from lip to lip as these objects broke upon the sight of the earliest spectators. Silently the crowd of travellers had gathered to those parts of the boat from which the first, least obstructed and latest views of the home and last resting place of the honored man might be had. The stillness of a deep and absorbing sentiment seemed to pervade every bosom—they gazed in silence, or spoke in whispers. In descending the river the grave stands prominently in view, as it does until the whole scene is lost to the sight in the windings of the river. The house stands on a much lower spot than the grave, and is not fairly seen until right abreast of it. It is a fair and comely mansion, not splendid, but sufficient for one whose residence is in the hearts of his countrymen. The grave stands on the elevated summit of a lovely hill within a small enclosure. I may not attempt to describe this scene; or the feelings it inspired in my own and the breasts of others I bared my head to the vehement sun and fierce wind while passing the grave of the lamented Harrison, and thought of the strange Providence that called him hence at a period so full of interest to the destiny of this great and growing nation. God is just; all his works are done in righteousness and truth. I felt this; and turned from the scene I have so faintly described, satisfied that submission to God is no less the duty of the Christian than it is of the politician."

It is stated that nearly three entire cargoes of Tea were destroyed by the late N. York Fire.

Hot For Oregon!

Correspondence of the Springfield (Ill.) Journal.

FRANK WILDERNESS, Aug. 21.
Our company consists of one hundred and thirty-one wagons—which are divided into three divisions, to suit the different interests of the emigrants as regards small stock. We have organized so as to protect it. Since we have had our interests mutual in regard to stock, we have lost none.

We have the anti-stock, go ahead division, (which we expect will leave us the first time it shall be their turn to go before, and the large stock division, expect, in that case, to overtake them in the mountains, when they may be glad to have assistance)—the small stock division and the large stock division.

Our cattle are improving. The grass, road and water are fine. Our health is good, and our task easy since we divided. We have 350 head of loose stock, twenty-seven wagons and fifty-one men, besides women and children. We have all well provided and equipped. Many who have no loose stock have preferred our division and company.

We have an organized government, both civil, military and judicial. Without such a government, no company can travel these wide regions, and with one, every thing is easy. We met, last night, six wagons from Fort Laramie—500 miles distant. Their captain has been with the Indians fifteen years. He gave me the following anecdote, illustrative of the little knowledge the Indians have of the power and number of the whites:

He said that one of the principal chiefs of the tribe where he was located, on seeing the emigration of the last year pass west, said to him as follows:

"Son—You have been with us a long time, and have not sought to go back. You surely will stay and die with us. You cannot go back now. All the white men have gone to the west. You cannot now go back."

On being told that they were not a handiwork of a number that could be trifled with among the white men, he exclaimed:

"The white men are thicker than the grass of the prairie."

There is no woman in our company that sleeps the less from fear of the Indians.

In haste, W. B. Lox.

Captain Kidd's Vessel.

Our readers are perfectly aware that for more than a year past a Company have been at work in making preparations to raise a large vessel lying in the Hudson, near Caldwell's, which is supposed to have been the vessel sunk by the celebrated Pirate Kidd. A company was organized, the stock sold at high prices, an old carrousel raised from the sunken vessel, and then, as all commotion on the subject ceased, we supposed the bubble had burst.

In this we are in error. We found ourself at Caldwell's a few days since, and were greatly surprised to perceive that a Coffin Dam had been constructed around the sunken vessel, and that day commenced pumping out the water. We ascertained too, that all parties interested in this speculation have the most unwavering confidence in this vessel being the identical one sunk by Kidd, and that it contains millions of dollars worth of treasure.

There is no doubt of the fact that Kidd did sink his ship somewhere in the Hudson, and that he escaped with his crew to Boston, where he was apprehended, sent to England tried and executed in 1701. It is so, suppose, equally certain, that in boring through the deck of the vessel sunk at Caldwell's, the auger has brought up specimens of silver; and there is no doubt but the vessel lying there is a large one, that she is embedded some 12 feet in the sand, and that they have raised from her an old fashioned carrousel.

All these facts have doubtless given confidence to those engaged in the enterprise; but it is curious that the principal cause of confidence, and that wherein parties have expended nearly thirty thousand dollars is mesmerism and clairvoyance!

Almost every individual in the United States who pretends to be clairvoyant under the mesmeric sleep, has united in declaring that this identical vessel contains an enormous amount of treasure in gold and silver bars, jewelry, diamonds and other precious stones, and gold dust; and they, one and all, declare their willingness to have mesmerism stand or fall by this test!

This is certainly a very curious fact, and one that gives an interest to the work now rapidly progressing to completion at Caldwell's. We certainly have no faith in the enterprise; but we are perfectly willing to take the mesmerists at their word, and if they have truly foretold the existence of great treasure in this vessel to admit their ability to see invisible things. If, on the contrary, there is no such treasure there, then, by its own admission mesmerism is a humbug.

The Consummation.—Twas twilight. Seated at the door of a moss-covered cottage, was the pride of the village; lovely Phoebe. Her finely moulded form—her exquisite and voluptuous bust—her classic and beautifully chiseled features—her sweet lips—teeth of pearly whiteness—and such eyes! Two drops of liquid azure set in snow all combined 'twas enough to melt the very soul of an anchorite!

Besides this angel, knelt a youth, whose cheek, pale as ashes to the tale—he was in love! "Tell me," said he, in trembling accents, "tell me this night my fate. Keep me in agony no longer. Tell me what sacrifice I shall undergo for you—your soul's idol! Command me to perform a pilgrimage around this earth on burning coals, and it shall be done. Anything, anything—but cast me not off! Plant a dagger in my heart, but keep me in suspense no longer! Say, lovely Phoebe—will you—will you be mine?" He trembled—his heart throbbled—she saw he was ready to swoon—a crimson flush mantled her cheek—

"Like the rich sunset 'neath Italia's sky," She took his hand in her tiny fingers, put her smiling lips to his ear, and whispered—
"Obed, I shall be nothin' else!"

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY SENTINEL.

Milwaukee, Aug. 2, 1845.

The extreme want of animation of the flour market still continues, and choice brands are freely offered at $3 63 1/2 a 3 75. A moderate retail business however is doing at $3 75. In wheat there appears to be no excitement, since the advices received by the late steamship, giving no encouragement for a foreign demand of American produce. Throughout the month of June the Liverpool market was very dull and the demand for American provisions of all kinds limited.

New wheat has already been brought in. We saw a number of loads yesterday, the quality of which fully equals if not surpasses the most sanguine expectations formed of the crops. We really hope that our merchants will not be so short sighted as to mix winter and spring wheat, as in so doing they render their wheat a drag in the eastern markets; if they will only look at our Chicago friends, they can soon see how injudicious they have been in this respect.

NEW YORK, Thursday 3 P. M.—Flour.—The receipts today were 8245 bbls. Prices are still lower. Sales of Genesee at 4 31/2; Michigan and Ohio 4 25.

ALBANY, July 24.—Flour is very heavy, and still tends downwards in price. We note quite a heavy sale of inferior brands at $1 1/2. Other brands, good to fair, are held at $1 1/2. Some of the crack brands are held still higher than this last mark, but there is no inquiry. We hear of no transactions in Grain. Oats are scarce and high. We hear of 42c being offered, and none to be had at that price.

Receipts yesterday.—Flour, 5,701 bbls; Ashes, 103 do; Cheese, 5,800 pounds; Butter, 4,500 do; Lard, 800 do; Wool, 32,500. Flour has declined in this market, and now sells at $4. In wool there is less doing. There has been very little fluctuation in value here since the clip began to come forward, 20,430c, being about the range for all kinds.

BUFFALO, July 23.—Flour is steadily dropping in price, and holders are anxious to get rid of it at low rates, the hot weather having its influence in causing much of the flour, not only of common brands, but of fancy to sour. 300 bbls Ohio flour sold at $3 1/2, and about 100 Indiana were taken at the same quotation. There is nothing doing in wheat, but little inquiry for the article.

COME ONE, COME ALL!
DAYAN'S

I AM now receiving a large stock of new, fashionable, fancy and staple Goods, suited to the tastes and wants of the public, and with my customers and the public generally to distinctly understand first, that my stock must be sold;—secondly, that it will be sold at prices that will challenge a comparison with any west of Buffalo;—thirdly, that in extent, beauty, variety and cheapness, it is second to none;—
fourthly, that, any terms are especially cash, my customers are not required to pay the percentage necessary to guard against bad debts;— and lastly, that I have but
ONE PRICE
from which there is no deviation.

In my stock of Dry Goods is a choice selection of

DRESS GOODS
Balzorens, Lawns, De Laines (new style)
Ginghams, Etonnes, Al-lalides, Bombazines, Silks, Prints, &c.

Bleached Shirtings and Sheerings,
Table Linen, Diapers, Batts, Yarn &c.

In the line of GROCERIES
I am confident in the belief and satisfied that my prices will verify it, that I can make better offerings than any other store in the city. The stock I have bought for the great rise in the market, an advantage of which my customers will reap the benefit. The stock is unusually large, and comprises every thing that can be named in that line.

In conclusion, all I ask is an examination of the stock, and a comparison of quality and prices.

WEST HAD FOREVER!

R. HOUGHTON takes this method to inform the customers of the late firm of R. H. & Co., and the public generally, that the business in future will be conducted by him at the old stand, where he will receive, in the course of the present week, a general assortment of Fancy and Staple

DRY GOODS.
Groceries, Crockery, Glassware, Hardware, Nails, Oil, Paints, &c.—All of which will be offered for sale at a small advance from cost, for cash or kind of country produce.
Believing the cash or ready pay system to be the cheapest and most advantageous to the purchaser, and as the seller, that principle will be adopted and strictly adhered to.
He does not wish to "put" and boast of his long residence and extensive acquaintance in New York—great facilities and extraordinary ability in purchasing goods, &c. or even say he will sell cheap, but any body else—but he wishes to say, his motto being "live and let live," and on the principle that a "nimble sixpence is better than a slow shilling," that he will sell "as cheap as the cheapest," the truth of which, he pledges himself to demonstrate to the entire satisfaction of every one who may favor him with a call.

WHEREAS Mary my wife has left my property, and without any just cause or provocation, and refused to live with me, I hereby forbid all persons harboring or trusting her on my account, as I shall pay no debts of her contracting after this date.
